INTRODUCTION

INTRODUCTION:

The Theewaterskloof Municipal Area is the largest in the Overberg region with an area of approximately 3231 square km and has 13 wards. It is the most populous area in the Overberg region with 42% of the total regional population. The Theewaterskloof Municipal area consists of 8 towns which are as follows: Riviersonderend, Greyton, Genadendal, Caledon, Villiersdorp, Botrivier, Tesselaarsdal, and Grabouw.

Funky Force Youth Development Movie Centre, Head Office is based in Riviersonderend a small town situated between Caledon and Swellendam about 50km from each. The town is well – known for the movie “The endless River” when it was screened at the Venice Film festival and become the 1st movie from South Africa to compete for the Golden Lion award and the director and actors were also nominated, Riviersonderend is also known for the large sheep, wheat and grain farming belt which create jobs for almost 31% of the town working people. The town is about 180km from Cape Town and the N2 national road cut the town into two; hence still make the economics of the town white-dominated and even provide for the best and bigger pieces of property for them, while they are in the minority of the population. They are also employers for most of the business development.

That’s what inspired the Funky Force Youth Development Movie Center, “to create as many jobs as possible for the unemployed by starting, our priority is to open the Funky Force Youth Development Movie Center and to start with training members to enter the entertainment industry and by fundraising {with trained artists}and investors we can create training for business opportunity, skills development, entrepreneur, and big brother projects. In this document, we will introduce to u the planning and layout of how established artists combined with Funky Force Entertainment PTY. and create centers over the Western, Eastern, and Northern Cape to help as many people as fast as possible to use their skills and abilities, with Funky Force Youth Development Movie Centre help with all the connections and experiences creating a platform to uplift themselves

Spread over 3 Provinces to help between 150 – 300 community members per week, as soon as the center is fully operational. Prepping artists, singers, dancers, and entertainers for any up and coming competition or event. To own our Community based movie, radio, and recording Studio to help communities to reach their best potential, assistant in gender base violins, child abuse, racism, and community-based projects with big brother projects. Online school, all 11 south African languages, basic government assistants, and how to apply for anything assistants. All 10 members are active community members and want to take the Funky Force Youth Development Movie Center to become what all communities need to have.

History

Riviersonderend is a village in the Overberg region of the Western Cape, South Africa, about 140 kilometres (87 mi) east of Cape Town. It is located on a loop of the Sonderend River, from which it takes its name. In the census of 2011 it was recorded as having a population of 5,245.[1] The N2 national road passes through Riviersonderend, forming its main street; it is 161 kilometres (100 mi) by road from central Cape Town

940/km2 (2,400/sq mi)

Place names of Khoi origin

Many place names of Khoi origin are still used as South African place names. Long before the establishment of the VOC settlement at the Cape these names had already been known and used. Along with the expansion of the colony the settlers came across even more place names of indigenous origin (see under Expeditions, the expedition by Oloff Bergh, and the journey of Hendrik Hop and Jacobus Coetzee to the Namaqua Land). More information regarding the origin and history of the following place names can be found in Nienaber and Raper (1977, 1980). Wherever possible, the first time a particular place name appears in the Resolutions the context, date and volume number are provided.

- Riviersonderend (Rivier Sonder Eijnde, 11.3.1710, C. 27) is a translation of Khoi Kannakamkanna with the same meaning, namely 'river without end'. The name was apparently given because it was difficult to locate its source among the many headwaters and tributaries.

The village was established in 1923, when Edith S V McIntyre sold her farm, Tierhoek, to the local Dutch Reformed church council for 6000 pounds. First known as “Rivier Zonder End” (Dutch for “river without end”), the name later changed to the Afrikaans “Riviersonderend”. [3] The name itself was originally a literal translation of the Khoekhoe name “Kannakamkanna” (“river without end”). [4]
